

BANGOR.

THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1838.

In consequence of the late arrival of the West mail, our daily paper, with, in future, be issued in the morning. For several months past we have been able to furnish our subscribers, in the afternoon, with all the news by the morning mail, but it is impossible to continue to do so, but with great inconvenience to our readers, who do not receive their papers, until late in the evening, and sometimes, (as we have been told,) not at all. We trust the change will be satisfactory.

FORESTALING. The activity of the forestalers is redoubled when the time arrives for an article of consumption to reach the market. "The first of the season." It was amusing, though at the same time exceedingly vexatious, to see the manner in which they monopolized the fine veal that the farmers brought in, this morning. "I'll take your whole lot," cried they, and off it went to the "City Market," and the humble Amphitryon, or potter familiar, with his basket under his arm, who thought himself in possession of a fine "leg or loin," walked away, with ill concealed chagrin, to seek redress through a newspaper.

It is vain to expect relief from these fellow-depredators, by newspaper-expositions. It has been repeatedly tried, without effect. Before they can be made to desist, they must be made to suffer. The community will continue to be imposed upon, until some individual has sufficient public spirit or personal independence to see that the penalties of the law are enforced upon them.

THE SEMINOLE WAR.

The following is an extract from a letter of one of the officers in the Florida army, under Gen. Jessup, to the Editor of the Richmond Whig. It conveys to the mind, some idea of the value and importance of the territory for which our Government has been so long and so vainly contending and for which so many, and such costly sacrifices have been made.

Had Gen Jackson and his administration but listened to the voice of reason, of justice, of humanity, the Seminole War would never have been heard of. Our country's treasures which have been idly squandered to the amount of Fifteen Millions of Dollars, would have been spared. Our country's honor, which has been barely soiled by the unworthy servants of the People, might have been preserved and the lives of the noblest and bravest in our army, which have been sacrificed, without scruple and without mercy, might have been saved, to cherish and magnify the honor of our country's banner, in after times and in more glorious encounters.

But the patronage of President Jackson's administration was thought insufficient to ensure the perpetuation of power in his own hands and the hands of him, whom he had chosen as his successor.

A War not be created and millions of money must be distributed among those for whom it was created, in plaudits for that deficiency in Executive patronage and influence, which Fifty thousand Officers could not alone supply.

"We have reached the much talked of Everglades, and have the last two days marched through mud, grass and water, from two to three feet deep, scarcely finding dry space enough to encamp on at night. A talk has just been had with some young Indians, and while I am writing, Gen. J. is in council with them, and I hope something will be done to put an end to this almost interminable war. I am, I say, BECAUSE THE ALMIGHTY HAS PLACED THESE SAVAGES IN A COUNTRY IN HABITABLE ONLY BY THEMSELVES, AND WHERE XENOPHONS' ARMY COULD NOT DISPLACE THEM, SO LONG AS THEY CHOOSE TO REMAIN."

Here then I part with him, more "in sorrow than in anger," with no feelings towards him personally, but the most kind, and his future course along the highway of politics, (while in his present situation,) must decide whether those feelings are to be strengthened or not. May he in all things be guided by justice and truth.

Here let me insert three prominent points, in relation to the duels, as taken from the New York American, which I would submit without remark, to the mind of every candid man. The Editor says:

1st. That as to the cause of the duel, it was about as substantial or unsubstantial as the causes of duels generally.
2d. That for all that gave atrocity to it, in the choice of weapons and the terms of combat, the surviving party is to be held guiltless, and
3d. That he is to be held in like manner guilty for the hot haste, which, hurrying the matter to an issue, defeated all effectual interference to prevent it.

MAINE LEGISLATURE IN SENATE. Monday, March 19, 1838.
The conference on the disagreement of the two Houses relative to enlargement of the jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace, reported that they were unable to agree, and the Senate adhered to their former vote, indefinitely postponing the same.

Passed to be enacted. Bill for the preservation of fish in the Penobscot waters.

Mr. Ogden from the Committee on the N. B. THE DUEL.

MR. EDITOR, I am not, as you might suppose by my caption, about to enter into the discussion of a subject so rife with sorrow to the friends of the deceased, censurable as many of them are, for attempting to convert it to party purposes.

I have a nobler object in view, one in which all parties, and especially the Whigs, feel a deep and ardent interest. It is to unmask one, who, while pretending to occupy neutral ground between the two great parties of the day, has been insidiously scattering his political poison throughout the wide extent of the circulation of the "Gospel Banner," printed at Augusta, and edited by the Rev. W. A. Drew. Your attention, and that of the public, is called to an editorial article which appeared in that paper of the 10th ult. headed, "The Duel in Washington."

I have read that article as many others have, with pain and with pity with pain, that the Editor should thus reason his usefulness in a good cause, with pity, for his weak conjectures, and unjust and ungenerous insinuations. Under the protecting shield of the avowed neutrality of his paper, he has given a distorted view of the circumstances connected with the fatal affair, and while canonizing the "immortal dead," has forgotten that justice which is due to the living.

While the Editor may possibly be innocent of designedly aiding a political party, many of his friends have, for a long time felt, that in all his political speculations, there has been a strong under current of feeling, settling in favor of the "administration." Far indeed, be it from me to call Mr. Drew to account for his political opinions. If he is a Localist, I say amen, but many of his readers will not longer consent, that he shall intrude upon them his political opinions, through a medium pledged to strict neutrality.

They are unwelcome guests, and will be driven from their "fire-sides," with the otherwise respectable medium through which they come. In the article referred to, he says "There are rumors that C's friends were treacherous, and we partly believe them. We should not wonder if it should turn out, that he was allowed no bullets in his rifle." This paragraph, fulfils its office of political design, and reflecting as it does upon the friends of both parties, but particularly avowing the belief in a conspiracy to destroy Mr. Cilley, would have been noticed last week, but for the hope, that, upon cool reflection, he would explain. He has and how? Why, he intended to include both parties in the suspicion that neither, until the last shot, were permitted to fire with bullets.

Does he believe it? If so, why should he have called that treachery, which was nought but his enemy? His explanation only makes the matter worse, and more cruel and unjust to the friends of Mr. Graves. He remarks in substance, that on the part of Mr. Wise, this might have been mere finesse, adopted by him, to give his friend the advantage, when they charged with bullets.

What consistency! that their friends should in the first place attempt to prevent a fatal issue, and then, because they did not succeed, it was only a bloody design of Mr. W. to take the life of Mr. C. Should it prove, (as I hope it may) that they thus wished to spare the effusion of blood, they will forever stand acquitted of the death of Mr. C. But now, that their humane intentions were frustrated, Mr. W. has become in the Editor's mind, the cold blooded and calculating murderer. If one is obnoxious to the suspicion, why not both? This stab at Mr. Wise, is malicious and unmanly; and Mr. Drew must further explain, if he wishes to go unscathed from public opinion.

Here then I part with him, more "in sorrow than in anger," with no feelings towards him personally, but the most kind, and his future course along the highway of politics, (while in his present situation,) must decide whether those feelings are to be strengthened or not. May he in all things be guided by justice and truth.

HOUSE. Monday, March 19, 1838.

Bill to repeal the wheat bounty act of last year, was indefinitely postponed.
Mr. Goodnow, from the Conference on the bill enlarging the jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace, reported that they had been unable to agree, and on motion, the House adhered to its former vote.

Mr. Norton called up the report and resolves on the amendment of the constitution relative to land, and they were recommitted.
On motion of Mr. Haddon ordered, that the Secretary of State cause the several towns and plantations to be furnished with copies of the report and statistics of the wheat bounty.

Mr. Reed offered an order, that the committee on the pay roll be instructed to make up the pay of members up to and including Thursday next. On motion of Mr. Goodnow, the further consideration was postponed till to-morrow.

Mr. Sheldon, by leave, introduced a bill to obtain statistics of certain products and manufactures in the State, which was read twice and to-morrow assigned.

Mr. Parra moved an adjournment, negatived, 12 to 74.

Mr. Parra called up Resolves calling on our Senators and Representatives to investigate the manner and circumstances of the death of Jonathan Cilley, read a second time, and passed to be engrossed.

IN SENATE.

Friday, March 20.
The committee appointed to enquire into the doings of the Oxford Bank at Fryeburg, reported, statement of facts accompanied by a resolution, declaring that there is no such bank as the Oxford Bank, and that the issuing of bills purporting to be from such a bank is a fraud on the community. Report accepted, and the resolution, after some discussion, Mr. Boutelle moved be laid on the table, Mr. B. then offered an amendment, casting censure on those who were instrumental in assigning the expired corporation act. He advocated his amendment at some length and Messrs. Greene and Osgood opposed. Pending the amendment Mr. Robinson moved the bill be laid on the table, Messrs. Dumont and Ham made some remarks and the motion prevailed.

The report and resolves in relation to the North Eastern Boundary, were called up by Mr. Greene. Mr. Ham moved a recommitment, for he thought there were some objectionable points in the report.

The question of recommitting was taken by yeas and nays. Yeas 13, nays 9.

IN THE HOUSE.

Tuesday, March 20.
Mr. Tenney, by leave, introduced a bill additional to promote the sale and settlement of public lands, which was read twice and to-morrow assigned.

Mr. Tenney moved to reconsider the vote for the printing and publication of the wheat bounty statistics, he was in favor of printing them in a pamphlet form. Mr. Haddon opposed. Mr. Holmes hoped it would be published in both forms. Reconsideration prevailed, and it was ordered that 10,000 copies be printed for the use of the Legislature.

Mr. Appleton, from the select committee, reported the bill to suppress the sale of ardent spirits &c. with an amendment.

STATE OF MAINE.

Resolves in relation to the decrease of the Hon. Timothy J. Carter.

Resolved, that the members of this Legislature have received with sentiments of deep regret, information of the death of the Hon. Timothy J. Carter, Representative in Congress, and one of the delegation from Maine, whose amiable deportment and unblemished moral character, have justly entitled him to the respect and affection of his fellow citizens.

Resolved, that we deeply sympathize with his bereaved widow on this melancholy occasion, and tender her our heart felt sympathies and our fervent regrets.

Resolved that the Secretary of State be directed to furnish her with a certified copy of these resolutions.

On motion of Mr. Goodnow, the House proceeded to ballot for a Major General of the 1st Division. Messrs. Hight, Rawson, Norton, Butler, Harris, and Hobbs were appointed a committee to receive, sort and count the votes. They reported the whole number of votes to be 130, necessary to a choice 69, Jeremiah McIntire had 118, and is accordingly elected on the part of the House.

Mr. Norton was charged with a message to the Senate, informing that body that the House has elected, on its part, Gen. Jeremiah McIntire as Major General of the 1st Division.

Mr. Norton called up the Resolves in relation to the Madawaska Road. Mr. N. moved to add a provision, that not more than $5000 shall be expended the present year on the road north of the Apicook river, and not more than $10,000 on the road south of that river, adopted, and the resolves passed to be engrossed.

Bills passed to be enacted, to establish the County of Franklin.

Mr. Hamlin called up the bill additional to, and explanatory of, the several poor-bill laws, and it was engaged on his motion. Mr. Goodnow moved to refer the bill to the next Legislature, he said an order was passed yesterday for the appointment of commissioners to prepare an involuntary law, and he thought it would be better to let the law alone until next year. Messrs. Deleander and Tenney opposed the motion, on the ground that the present law is continued in some places so as to operate very improperly. Mr. Appleton advocated the motion, he said the bill required the delinquent debtor to give up his property, not for the payment of all his honest debts, but to satisfy the claim of one of his creditors. He believed the old law could be amended, the bill proposed to put new cloth upon an old garment, and will only make the rent worse. Mr. Hamlin said the existing law does not compel debtors to give up the property they disclose, though they may have $20,000 in notes or bank bills, which are unattachable. He said this bill is necessary, the eastern section of this State cries aloud for it, the existing law goes to license fraud and swindling. Mr. Goodnow further opposed the reference, and pointed out the defects of the existing law and the evils which are experienced under them. Mr. Goodnow said the bill proposed to add new conditions to existing bonds. Mr. Hamlin replied, and the bill was further amended. The motion to refer was rejected, and the bill passed to be engrossed.

was broken into and plundered. The following morning in court Mr. Curran was asked if he had heard of Connellors robbery? "No," replied he, "who did he rob?"

WINTER AT THE SOUTH AND WEST. On Sunday 4th inst. the thermometer at Greenfield S. C. says the Mountainer, was within 12 deg. of zero. The ponds were frozen to the thickness of two or three inches, which enabled the citizens to supply themselves with that summer luxury, ice. At Darien Georgia, the nights of the 4th and 5th, there was a severe frost and the young orange plants, it is feared are destroyed.

At Darien Geo. there was a severe frost in the nights of the 5th and 6th inst. since which it has been very cold. It is feared that the young orange plants are totally destroyed.

Business was almost suspended and the streets and market deserted, on the 10th inst. at St. Louis Mo. in consequence of the extreme cold of the weather, and the Mississippi river being blocked up with ice.

At Natchez on the 3d inst there was a fall of snow, and a hard ice formed. The weather was colder than it had been there for twenty years.

In the neighborhood of Memphis and Randolph, at the latest dates, the Mississippi river was covered with masses of floating ice. In some places the fields of ice stretched across the river from bank to bank, so as to choke up the stream and obstruct the navigation. Opposite to Randolph a stationary bridge had been formed, which extended from shore to shore.

At Cincinnati, Feb. 17 there was one foot of snow, and the thermometer down to zero. Ohio river full of floating ice.

At Pittsburg on the 19th inst the snow was twenty-six inches deep, the river was closed, and no steamboat had left the place for six days.

SONG.

BY MRS. H. W. HAYDEN.
"Oh, cast thou not Affection from thee! in this bitter world Hild to thy heart that only treasure fast, Watch guard it! suffer not a breath to dim The bright gem's purity."

If thou hast crush'd a flower,
The root may not be blighted,
If thou hast quench'd a lamp,
Once more it may be lighted,
But on thy harp or on thy lute,
The string which thou hast broken,
Will never in sweet sound again
Give to the lute a token.

If thou hast loosed a bird,
Whose voice of song could cheer thee,
Still still, he may be won
From the skies to warble near thee,
But if upon the troubled sea,
Thou hast thrown a gem unheeded,
Hope not that wind or wave shall bring
The treasure back when needed.

If thou hast bruise'd a vine,
The summer's breath is healing,
And its cluster yet may grow
Through the leaves their bloom reveal.
But if thou hast a cup o'erthrown
With a bright draught fill'd, Oh never
Shall Earth give back that lavish'd wealth,
To cool thy parch'd lips' fever.

The heart is like that cup,
If thou waste the love it bore thee,
And like that jewel gone,
Which the dew will not restore thee,
And like that string of harp or lute
Whence the sweet sound is scattered,
Gently, oh gently, touch the curds
So soon for ever shattered.

NEW MAGAZINE OF VARIETIES.
BENTLEY'S MISCELLANY.
EDITED BY "BOZ." With illustrations by Cruikshank. Never has a periodical more earnestly fulfilled its promises than this illustrious magazine. It undertakes to be comical, and it is comical almost to a fault. The humor of Boz is humor per se, there is nothing like it; nothing so good in its way, and it would appear that the writings from which it is drawn are inexhaustible.

The extraordinary share of popularity this Comic Periodical is said to have experienced in England under the editorial management of Charles Dickens, has led the subscribers to believe that an American edition of a work of such high repute for wit and talent would, in addition to the Reprints of Reviews and Magazines of all character already issued by him, be acceptable. He therefore respectfully takes leave to announce to the public his determination to commence an American series (the volume of the original) of Bentley's Miscellany with the January number of the present year, 1838, and which he may expect to have ready during the month of February.

His editors of journals of acknowledged merit have extracted especially from the numbers of the Miscellany as they have appeared - and the Pickwick Papers, emanating from the pen of the talented editor is now in course of publication in the form of a comic. The character of the work therefore is so favorable to its popularity that it may be presumed to receive the stamp of public approval which encourages the proprietor to hope that in being the more humble instrument of presenting to the public the reprint of Bentley's Miscellany to the proprietors of the United States has not mistaken the public taste, and if his inference in this respect be correct he may, with confidence, look forward to the result.

Broadway corner of Pine Street.
Confronting 1. The work will be issued in monthly numbers as quickly as the receipt of the original copy at the printer. Price 50 cents per number or five Dollars per annum payable in advance.

It will be handsomely printed in a bold type on a paper of first rate quality, size 8vo, and clothed up in a cover of unique design, and he made in every respect to correspond with the London edition. Subscribers send to SMITH & FENNO, 17 West Market Square.
